

You must take action!

And now we wind up with you and again the why of this book. This book is written for managers of organizations. It is my hope that people at all levels can learn from it, but the crucial arguments have been directed at the top.

The reason for this is that in organizations, revolutionary changes come from the top.

Bill Gates turned Microsoft on a dime and realigned the entire company to focus on the internet. It is one of the main reasons Microsoft is still relevant today. Even if a large group of programmers and other workers suggested such a change, it could not have happened so quickly and so completely.

The ideas in this book are not new. They are brought together in a new way. However, the result is a significant change in the way you can view and grow learning, innovation and knowledge to help your organization succeed in the information age.

The answers are within your organization.

A HAs are happening all around. What you have to do is help spread em around, encouraging new things to grow.

Feed the pieces and the whole will grow.
Help the people in your organization communicate and learn from each other.

A new adventure awaits if you will but lead.

Success is yours for the making!

Onward HO!!
